Conference call between Andrew Clark, Kimball Clark, and Mary Anne Koski (their aunt), relaying a little bit about their ancestor John Wickersham Woolley.

from more notes about Ellsworth

That's basically what you said in '76.

on an April '99 telephone visit with Mary Ann,

Yeah.

I have several things. And at the very bottom, there's just a few lines.

It's just a little, saying a little bit different,

which is really good.

Of course, this is about Pop's parentage, you know.

--- 00:01:00 --- --- 00:00:20 ---

Yeah, it uses the word disfellowship.

It says, Pop's great-grandfather, John W. Woolley

It's sort of, yeah.

lived in plural marriage,

But you said, why did you say he was disfellowshipped?

but was disfellowshipped for continuing the practice

It says,

and encouraging others to do so

Pop's [Ellsworth's] great grandfather, John W. Woolley,

after the church discontinued it.

lived in plural marriage,

He changed his mind later in his life

but was disfellowshipped for continuing the practice

and at age 91 or 92 told Pop,

and encouraging others to do so

--- 00:00:40 ---

after the church discontinued it.

Ellsworth I was, and he quotes,

--- 00:01:20 ---

"Ellsworth I was wrong.

He changed his mind later in his life and at age 91 or 92 told Pop,

I want my descendants to follow the leaders of the church."

So, so I have that.

Ellsworth, I was wrong. I want my descendants to follow the leaders of the church.

And I got that in quotes. "I was wrong."
